

CULTURE TRAIL

1 Rathaus Vaduz
Built according to plans by Franz Roggler in 1932, the town hall is modelled on a medieval public work. Standing right in front of it is Nag Arnoldi's expressive bronze "Tre Cavalli", which displays influences by Marino Marini as well as Pablo Picasso.

3 Reclining Woman
This sculpture by Fernando Botero shows a reposing female nude as a symbol of the dormant soul.

8 Government District
Taken together, the Government Building, which dates back to 1905, the Parliament Building and the National Archives by architect Hansjörg Cöritz have formed the redesigned Government District on the striking Peter-Kaiser-Platz since 2008.

2 Salmann Building
The Salmann Investment Management AG building features striking modern architecture, making a walk through the Beckagässli more than rewarding. Designed by the Cuban and French architect Ricardo Porro, the building is framed by a wind chime which is currently deactivated, though only for reasons of noise protection.

4 Museum of Fine Arts
Designed by the team of architects Meinrad Morger, Heinrich Degelo and Christian Kerez, the distinctive black cube has been complemented since 2015 by the Hilti Art Foundation building, which was created by the Basel architects Morger and Dettli.

9 Prince Franz Josef II and Princess Gina
To commemorate the 70th wedding anniversary of the late Prince and Princess, the two busts created by Berlin artist Bertrand Freisleben were unveiled in the autumn of 2013.

5 Engländerbau
The English Building was built in 1933 by the Schaan architect Erwin Hinderer. It was the first building in the country to be constructed with structural steel framing. Today, it houses the Liechtenstein Treasure Chamber, the Postage Stamp Museum and the Art Space.

10 Cathedral of St. Florin
This neo-Gothic three-nave church was built between 1869 and 1873. The cathedral also contains the crypt of the Princely Family of Liechtenstein.

6 African King
Artist Gunter Stilling devotes a major part of his work to the human head.

11 Marxhäuser
Designed by star architect Hans Hollein, the asymmetrical building connects directly to a building by architects Anton Falkeis and Cornelia Falkeis-Senn which is modelled on a ship. The latter, in turn, opens up on its eastern side to a well-tended garden.

7 Z-Cube
This letter structure by Liechtenstein artist Georg Malin depicts the letter Z, which appears back-to-front when viewed from the outside.
